

Kiara
Lopez

Kiara Lopez is a New Jersey and Philadelphia based dance artist/choreographer.

Kiara received her training in dance by both through dance conventions and competitive dance. Furthering her career, Kiara attended University of the Arts in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. She graduated from The School of Dance program in 2021, under the direction of Donna-Faye Burchfield — receiving her BFA in Dance with an Artist Scholarship. During her time at UArts, Kiara had the honor of working with well known choreographers including Gary Jeter, Kim Bears-Bailey, Katie Swords Thurman, Tommie Waheed-Evans, Elisa Clark, Jesse Zarritt, Annie Rigney, Sidra Bell, Maleek Washington, Thom White and many more. Kiara focuses on strengthening dancer's proprioception by educating them on mind and body connection. Using a vast language of contemporary, modern and hip hop techniques, Kiara challenges dancers to use greater use of rhythm, musicality, and dynamics in the intricacy of her choreography.
